The members of the local military company after about ten days of soldier life spent at the West Point encampment returned home Saturday evening last somewhat the worse for wear and with many experiences more and less thrilling to relate. The boys were glad enough to get home but still say that they had a good time and would be glad enough to go through a similar experience at some later day. The Springfield company was divided up at the encampment and the men used to fill in vacancies in other companies of the regiment the majority of them going with the Shelbyville company of which R. A. Barton a former Washington county man is Captain. None of the home boys met with any serious mishap nor was anyone sick during the trip.
